

Testing Steps for Dev Environment

7. Process Schedules

[Note: This step is directly depend on process steps step]

1. Process Schedules

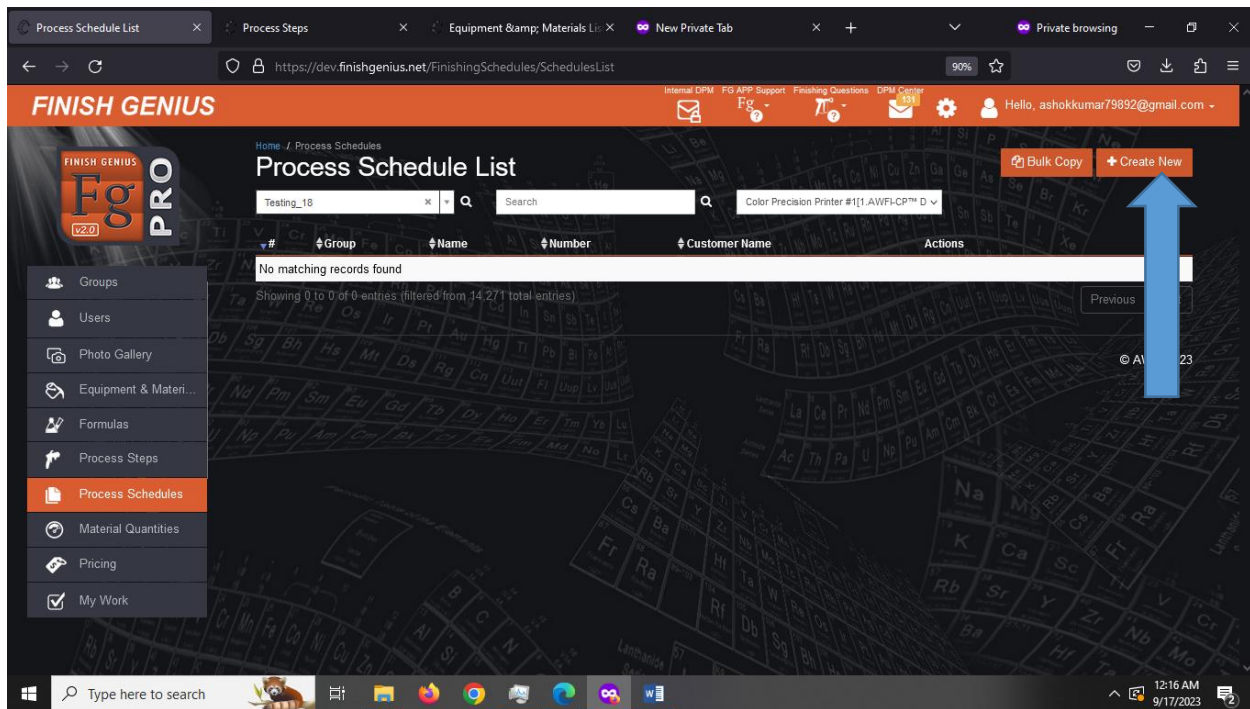

Here you can see already created process schedules and also create new one

2. Creating New Process Schedule

Suggestion: There should be Back button on Create New Schedule Step

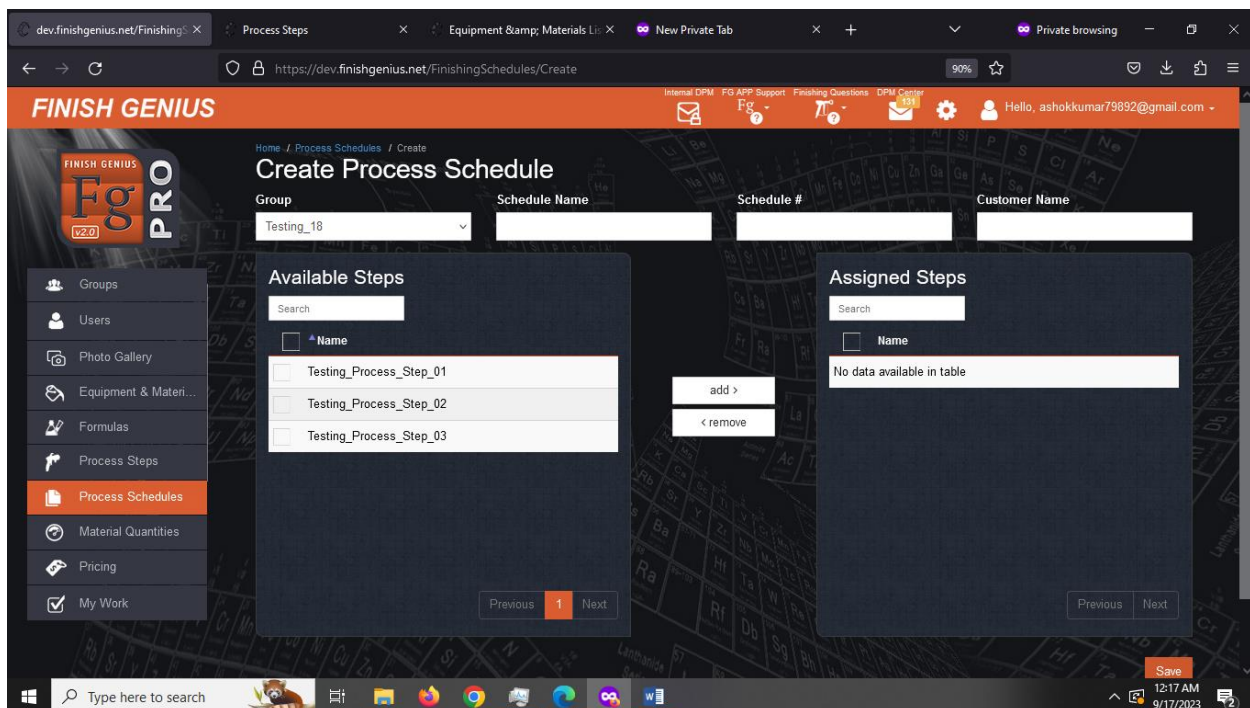

Step 1. Click on Create New

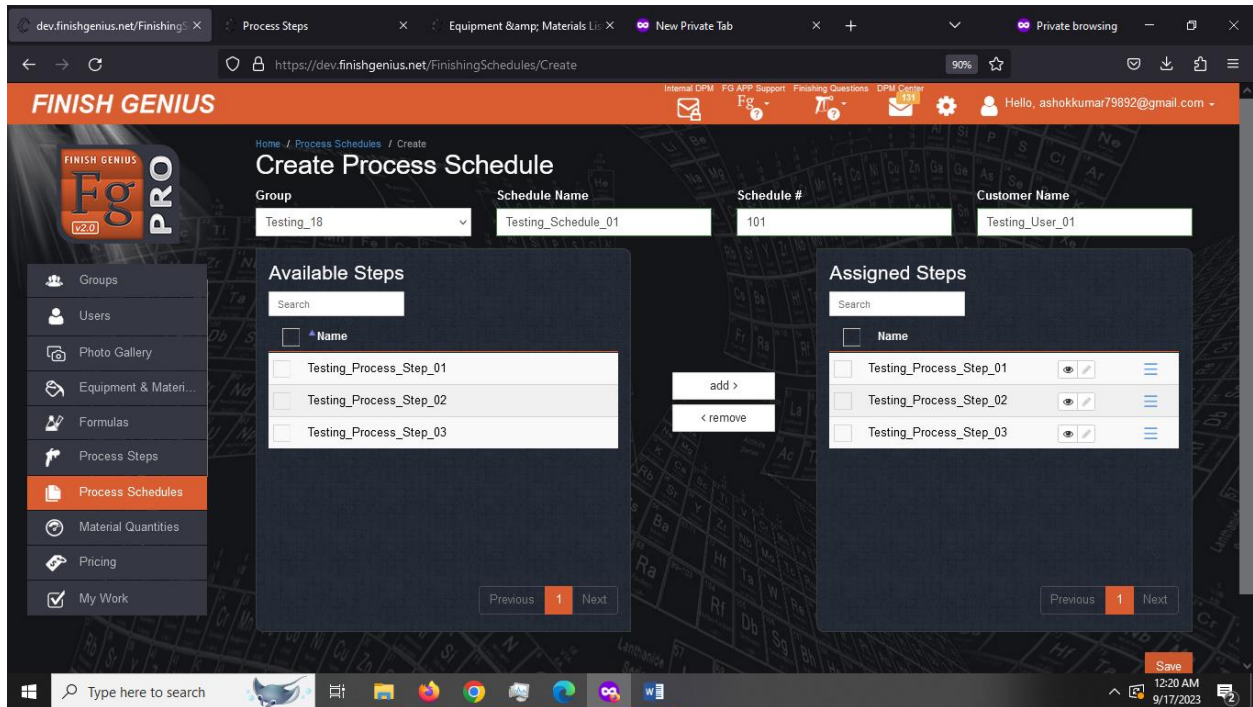

Step 2 Give Name, Schedule Number and Customer Name to this particular Schedule .

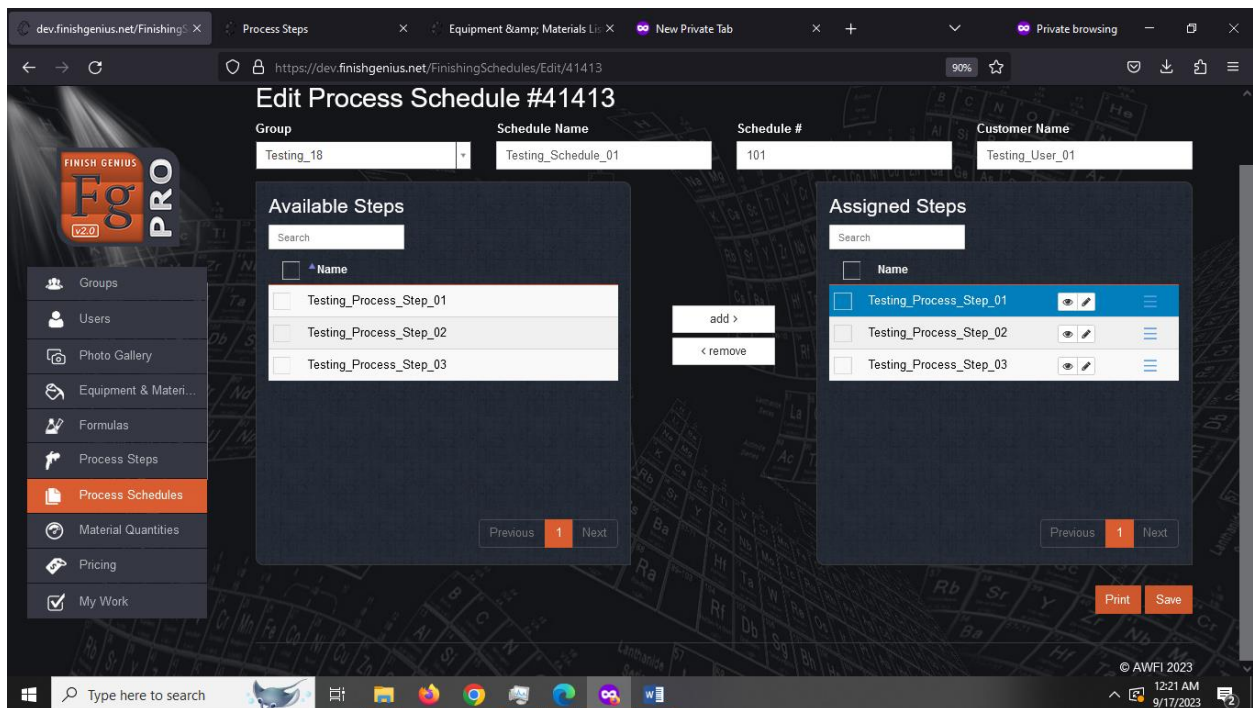

Select and arrange process steps to schedule

Click on save

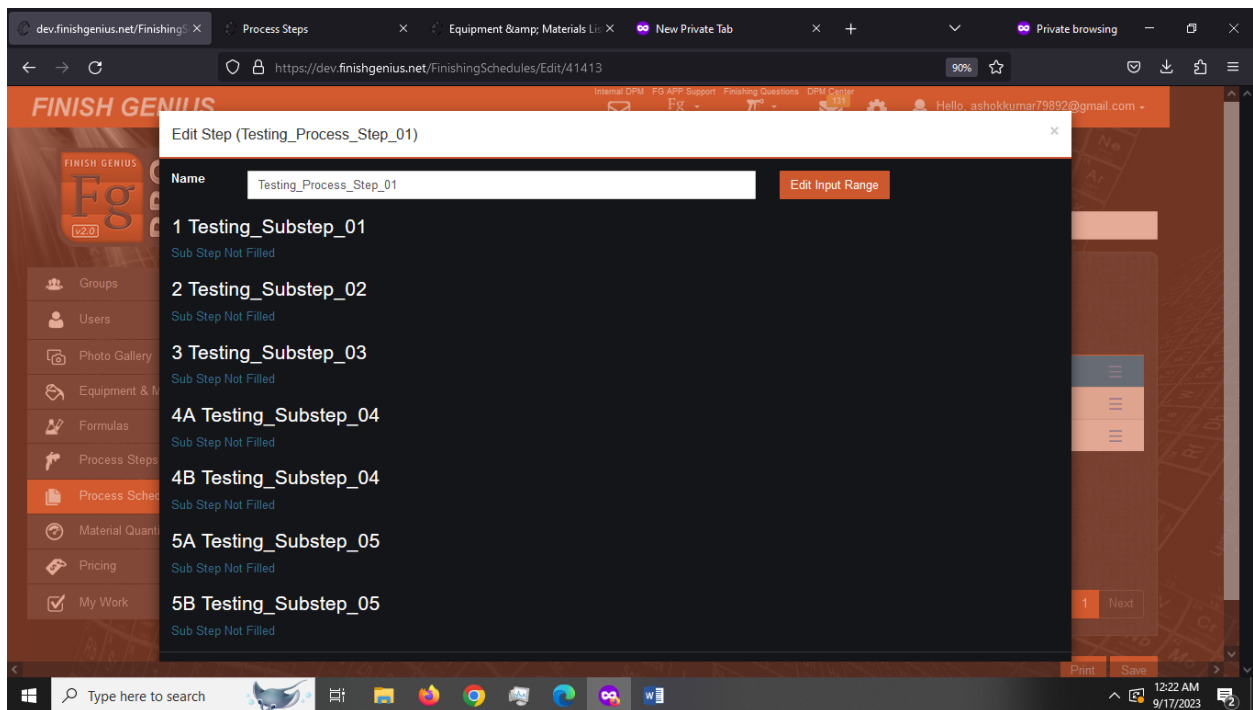

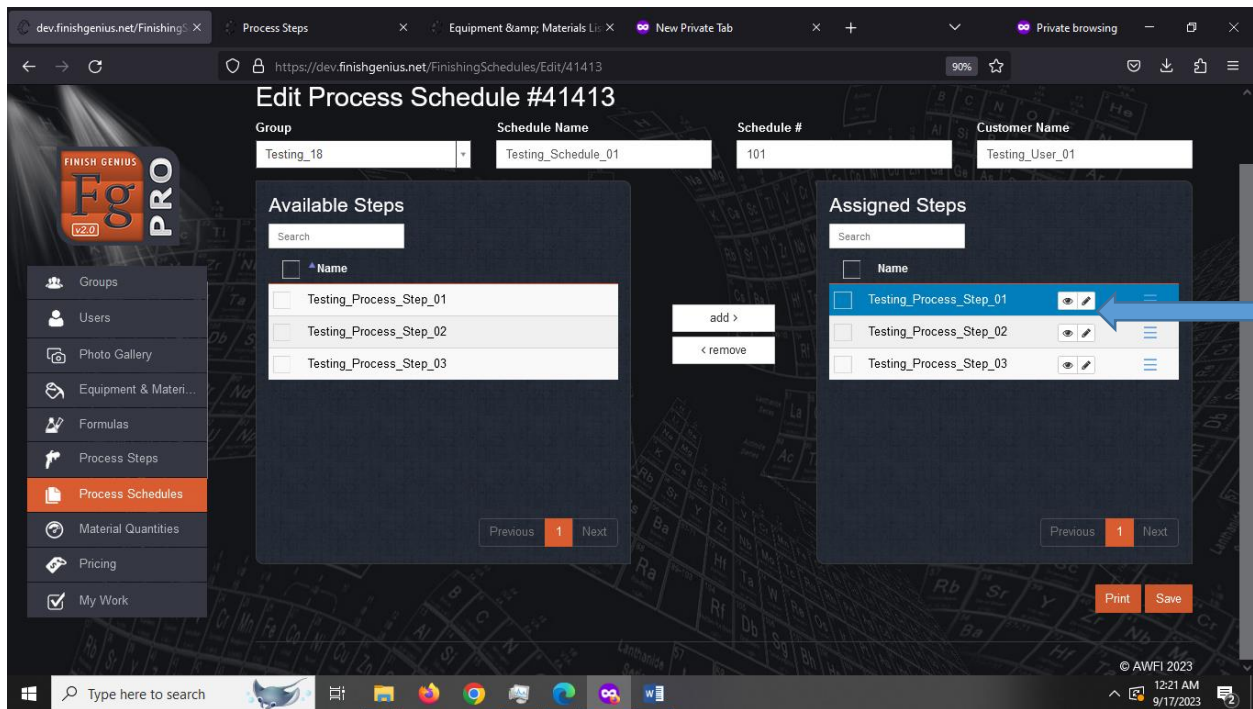

Step-3: You can also print this schedule

Step 4 You can edit each schedule

Process Schedule List

Home / Process Schedules

Testing_18

Color Precision Printer #1 [1.AWFI-CP™ D

#	Group	Name	Number	Customer Name	Actions
41413	Testing_18	Testing_Schedule_01	101	Testing_User_01	Edit Clone Copy Master Documents Print Sample Label

Showing 1 to 1 of 1 entries (filtered from 14,272 total entries)

Previous 1 Next

© AWFI 2023

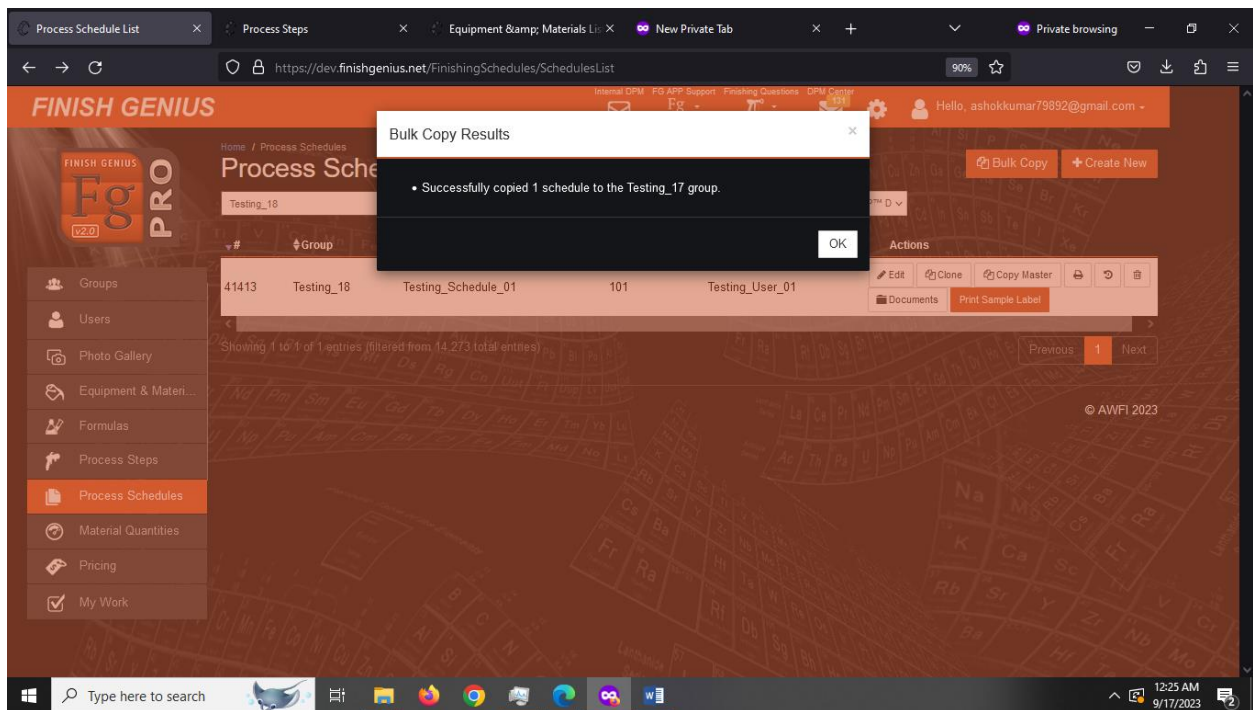

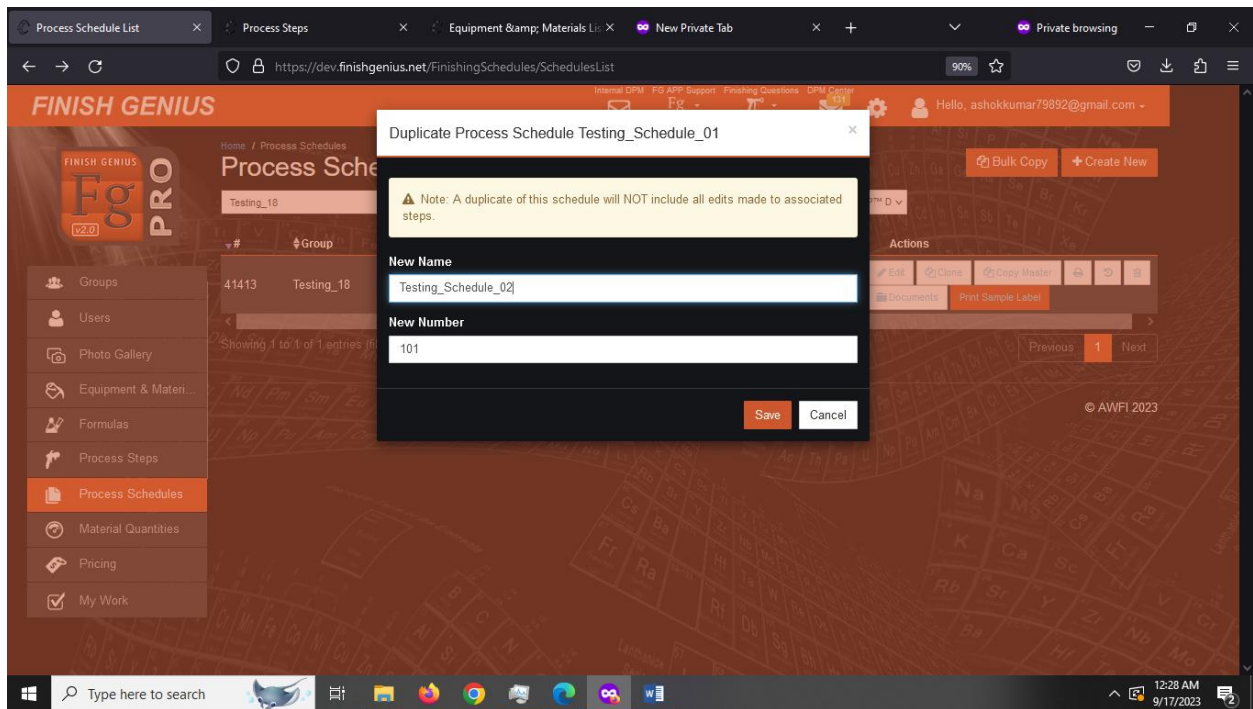

3. Bulk copy

Bulk Copying 1 Items

Select the Destination Group

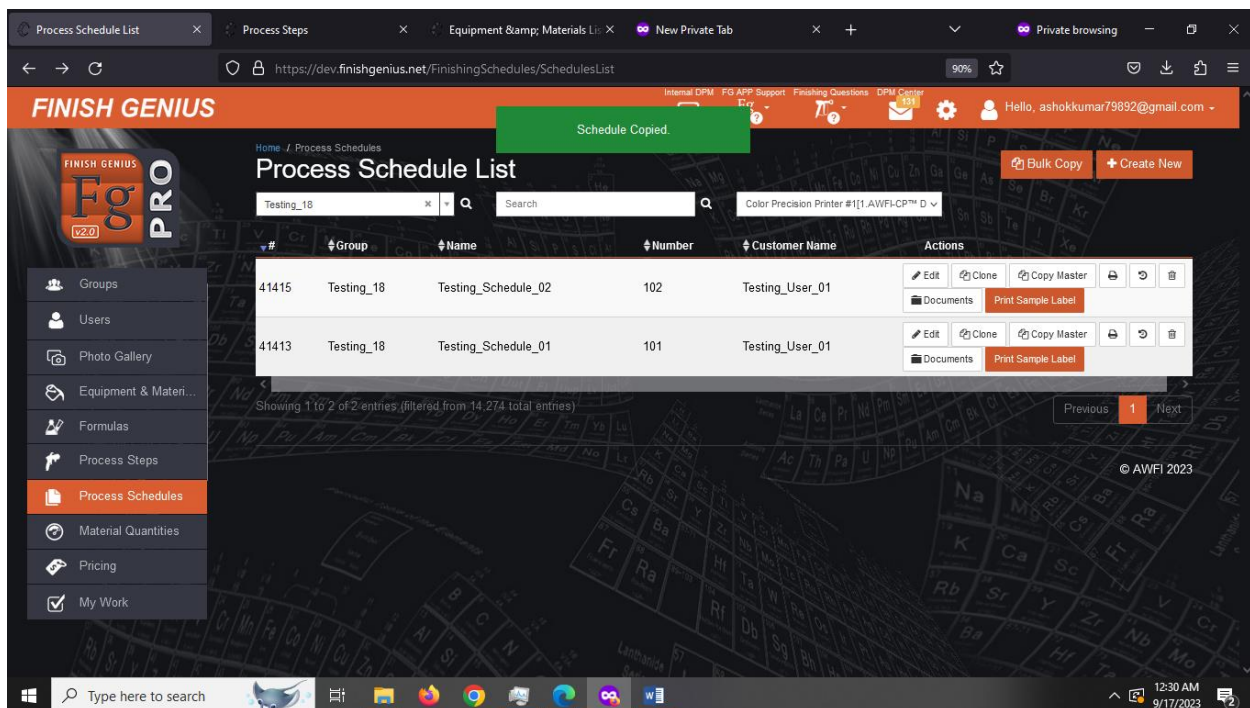

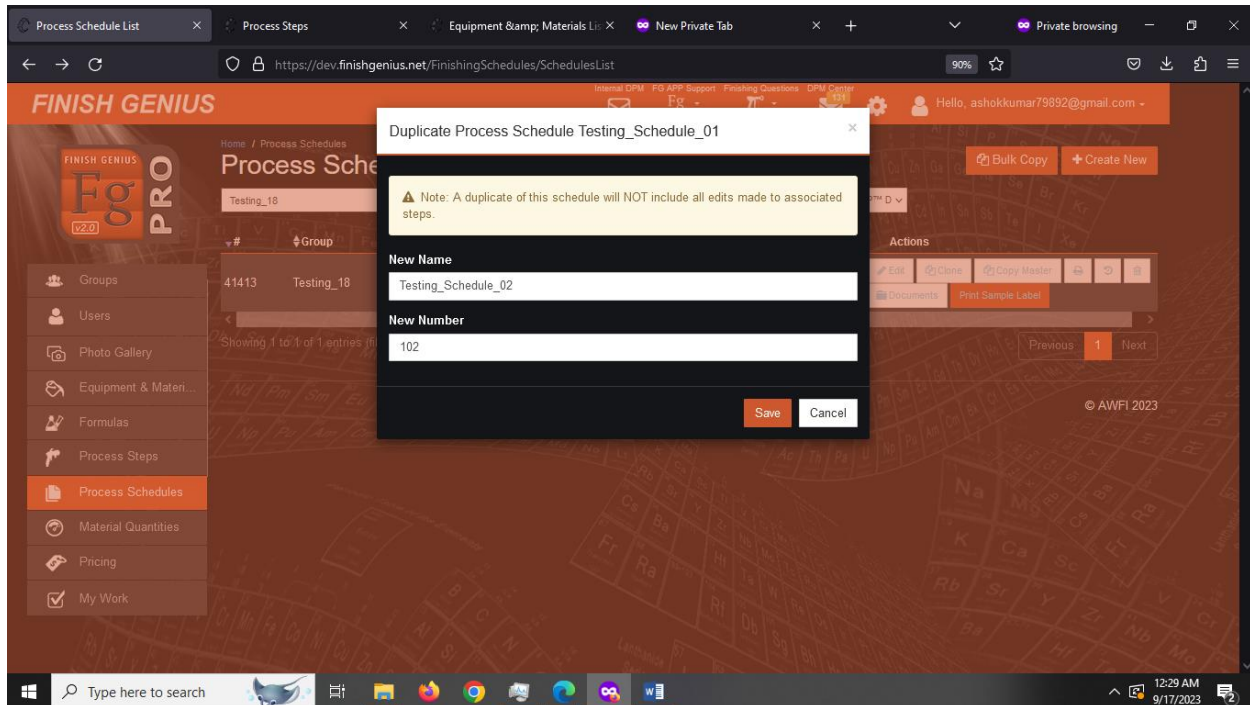

Testing_17

Copy Cancel

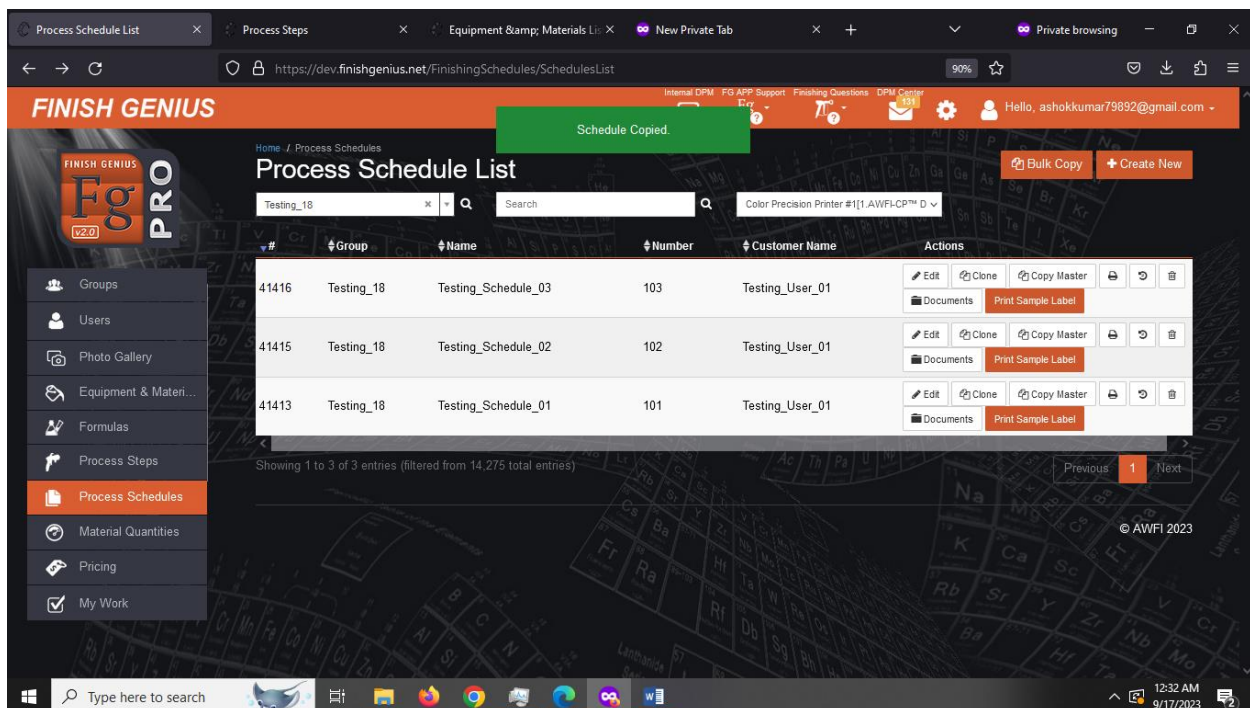

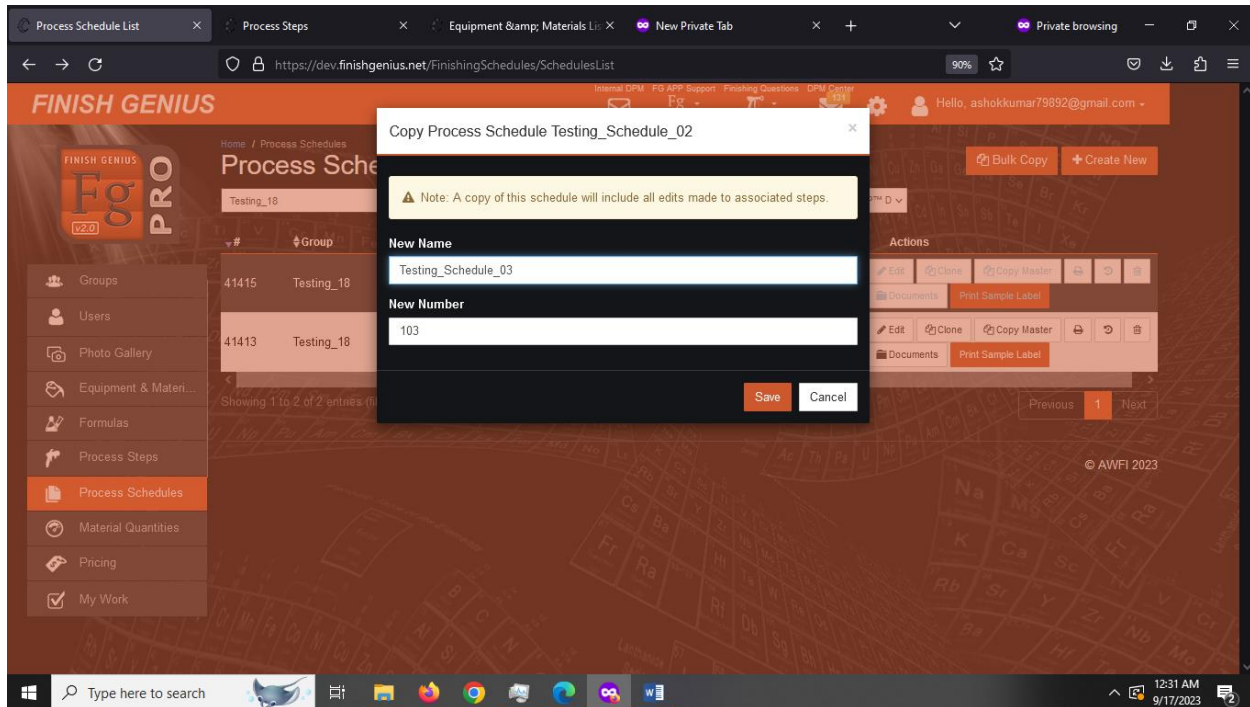

4. You can create other process schedules from the existing process schedule by using clone feature

Note: all the edits made to this process schedules doesn't get copied

5. You can copy the schedule to other schedule (and also want to include all the edits made then you can use master copy)

6. You can also view, print and see history of schedule and archive the schedule

Conclusion

1. Process Schedules for selected client is visible
2. We are able to create New Process Schedule
3. We are able to edit existing process schedule
4. We are able to bulk copy process schedule to other group
5. Clone & Copy master are working properly
6. History and Archive and print sample label option need to be tested